TRIPTERIUM T50

1. Abstract

Tripterium T50 is a tokenized, closed-end index fund (CEF), which passively tracks the top fifty cryptocurrency assets by market capitalisation, in order to deliver healthy returns. The fund has a Venture Capital Feeder Fund, which will invest in expertly-vetted early stage blockchain technology companies that are seeking to undertake an Initial Coin Offering (ICO), therefore benefitting from the ICO returns.

Profits from the Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund will provide a constant stream of new money coming into the Tripterium T50 index fund, increasing the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio to the benefit of the T50 token holders.

The Tripterium T50 token is an Ethereum ERC20 standard token that represents the holder's ownership in the fund. The value of the T50 token is always backed by the Net Asset Value of the fund. A liquidation option that can be exercised via the smart contract, guarantees a minimum value for each T50 token based on its proportion of the NAV.

Cryptocurrencies are one of the most important inventions since the inception of the web. They are ushering in a new era of decentralization, privacy, and control of one's own data that has the potential to revolutionize many parts of society. There are currently over one thousand cryptocurrencies in use, with hundreds more being released each year. Their combined market cap has grown from $10 billion in 2016, to over $400 billion at the time of writing, having previously been much higher.

Companies involved with blockchain, the technology behind cryptocurrencies and altcoins are expected to experience significant growth over the coming years. Blockchain is the fastest growing market in the world and the Tripterium T50 token offers investors an opportunity to benefit from the growth in value.

Blockchain-derived business value will grow to

TRIPTERIUM T50

2. Introduction

Last year witnessed a shift of approximately a third of a trillion dollars from actively managed funds into index funds. That means in the United States, a massive $350 billion moved straight into index funds.

Ever since index funds were created in the stock market, they have consistently outperformed the average managed fund. They have lower charges than managed funds.

Warren Buffett, the billionaire investor consistently recommends low cost index funds. In 2007, Warren Buffett made a bet with Protégé Partners, a US based Investment Company, which specialises in investing in hedge funds. The bet was that an index fund would outperform their choice of managed fund. Warren buffet won the $1 million bet as the index fund outperformed Protégé Partners selection of hedge funds.¹

As blockchain technology matures, the Tripterium T50 index fund will simply harness the power of the markets to deliver healthy returns. At the time of writing, the total market cap of the crypto market has been fluctuating around $400 billion². This might seem a lot, but when you take into consideration the size of other financial markets it really is not. The dot com bubble at its peak was a $3 trillion market, gold is a $7.7 trillion market, the global stock market is a $73 trillion market, the global real estate market is a $217 trillion market, and the derivatives market is a $544 trillion market. There is room for exponential growth in the crypto market.

Only 1% of the world's population own cryptocurrency. Blockchain technology can solve dozens of previously intractable problems, like digital identities, supply chain integrity, data breaches and many, many more.

The use of blockchain technology within society has been exponentially increasing since it was introduced to the world in the whitepaper written by Satoshi Nakamoto³. The first use of blockchain technology was bitcoin.

According to Gartner Insights, blockchain, the driving force behind the crypto market is estimated to grow in business value to $3.1 trillion by 2030⁴. The age of blockchain technology is just beginning.

Efficient-Market Hypothesis

The efficient-market hypothesis (EMH) is a theory in financial economics stating that asset prices fully reflect all available information. Therefore, the stock market incorporates all available information about a stock causing the stock to be correctly priced. A direct implication is that it is impossible to consistently outperform the market on a risk-adjusted basis since market prices should only react to new information.

The French mathematician Louis Bachelier was the first person to propose the efficient markets theory in his PhD thesis "The Theory of Speculation" in 1900⁵. Eugene Fama, further developed the efficient market hypothesis arguing that the only way for an investor to outperform the markets is either by chance or by investing in riskier investments⁶.

Tripterium T50 has been structured to take advantage of the EMH theory. The T50 index fund will harness the power of the market to deliver returns, while the Venture Capital Feeder Fund will invest in riskier ventures in order to gain from the higher returns associated with them. This allows for Tripterium T50 to consistently outperform the market and benefit from the fastest growing market in the world.

TRIPTERIUM T50

5. Tripterium T50 Fund

There are several components that make up the Tripterium T50 index fund, and one needs to understand each component.

Index Fund

Index funds aim to track the performance of a specific index. The value of the index fund will go up or down as the index goes up or down. Index funds typically have lower costs than actively managed funds because the portfolio manager doesn't have to do as much research or make as many investment decisions. Even if two funds are of the same type, their risk and return characteristics may not be identical.

Active vs Passive Management

Active management means that the portfolio manager buys and sells investments, attempting to outperform the return of the overall market or another identified benchmark. Passive management involves buying a portfolio of securities designed to track the performance of a benchmark index. The fund's holdings are only adjusted if there is an adjustment in the components of the index.

Exchange Traded Fund (ETF)

An ETF, or exchange-traded fund, is a marketable security that tracks an index, a commodity, bonds, or a basket of assets like an index fund. Unlike mutual funds, an ETF trades like a common stock on a stock exchange. ETFs experience price changes throughout the day as they are bought and sold. ETFs typically have higher daily liquidity and lower fees than mutual fund shares, making them an attractive alternative for individual investors.

Closed End Fund (CEF)

A closed-end fund (CEF) or closed-ended fund is a collective investment model based on issuing a fixed number of shares which are not redeemable from the fund. Unlike open-end funds, new shares in a closed-end fund are not created by managers to meet demand from investors. Instead, the shares can be purchased and sold only in the market, which is the original design of the mutual fund, which predates open-end mutual funds but offers the same actively-managed pooled investments.

Venture Capital Fund

Venture capital funds are investment funds that manage the money of investors who seek private equity stakes in start-up and small to medium-sized enterprises with strong growth potential. These investments are generally characterized as high-risk/high-return opportunities. In the past, venture capital investments were only accessible to professional venture capitalists.

Tokenized Index Fund

A tokenized index fund is a new type of investment fund. The Ethereum blockchain provides a trust-less and transparent platform that allows tokens to be easily transferred. This removes the need for a third party to keep track of investment accounts and their investors. Using the Ethereum network, a token holder can trade their token with no entry or exit fee bar the transfer fee charged by the Ethereum network. The T50 tokens represent their share of the underlying assets within the fund.

Structure of the Tripterium T50 fund:

- The Tripterium T50 fund is a passively managed, closed end, tokenized index fund, which includes a venture capital feeder fund to harness the power of the efficient-market hypothesis
- The portfolio passively mirrors the components of the top 50 cryptocurrencies by market cap
- Protection against the T50 token trading at a discount is provided by the liquidation option which creates a price floor for the token

TRIPTERIUM T50

6. Portfolio Hyper-Parameters

Index funds don't try to beat the market; they simply aim to harness the power of the markets to deliver healthy returns. They typically have relatively low charges, and this cost advantage has seen index funds grow in popularity in recent years. Today, millions of investors use index funds as a simple, cost-effective way of gaining access to the markets.

Index funds have changed the way that many people think about investing. By providing a diversified exposure to a broad range of assets, index funds enable investors to track the performance of an entire asset class, rather than having to select individual assets. T50 token holders will have the ability to benefit from the potential of blockchain-based digital assets.

Key benefits of the Tripterium T50 indexing approach:

- One-stop shop: T50 holders get exposure to the top 50 cryptocurrencies with one investment, giving them a quick and easy way to implement their investment strategy
- Diversification: The Tripterium T50 index fund holds the top 50 cryptocurrencies by market cap, meaning a token holder is less exposed if one of the holdings performs poorly
- Low research overheads: The T50 index fund harness the power of the crypto market, helping investors keep more of their returns
- Economies of scale: During rebalancing, the T50 index fund makes bigger trades, than retail investors. This allows it to pay lower trading fees, and passes these savings onto the Tripterium T50 token holders

Methodology

A capitalization-weighted (or "cap-weighted") index, also called a market-value-weighted index is an index whose components are weighted according to the total market value of their outstanding tokens. Every day an individual crypto price changes and thereby changes an index's value. The impact that an individual crypto price change has on the index is proportional to the company's overall market value (the crypto price multiplied by the number of outstanding tokens or coins), in a capitalization-weighted index.

Cap

The Tripterium T50 index fund is a modified capitalization-weighted index. The cryptocurrency's weights in the index are based on their market capitalizations, with a 10% cap rule, limiting the influence of the largest cryptocurrencies.

Forked coins

A cryptocurrency hard fork is when a single cryptocurrency splits in two. The free coins received after the hard fork will be gradually rebalanced into the fund or sold off and the profits injected into the fund should it not enter the top 50 cryptocurrencies by market cap.

Profits from the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund

Profits received from the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund will be gradually injected into the Tripterium T50 index fund during rebalancing.

TRIPTERIUM T50

Rebalancing Frequency

Over time, the portfolio naturally changes due to market movements. Rebalancing is the act of restoring the portfolio to its target asset allocation. Initially, the Tripterium T50 fund will be rebalanced weekly due to the volatility of the cryptocurrency market. Though, over time, as the market matures, rebalancing will be performed monthly. The act of rebalancing an index fund reduces risk, and over time increases the median return of the fund.

Trading and Slippage

Slippage refers to the difference between the expected price of a trade and the price at which the trade is actually executed. Slippage often occurs during periods of higher volatility when market orders are used, and also when large orders are executed when there may not be enough interest at the desired price level to maintain the expected price of trade.

Our algorithm weighs all the various costs from different exchanges and autonomously buys at the cheapest point and sells at the highest value from a variety of exchanges, in order to minimise slippage. While a limit order can prevent negative slippage, it carries with it the inherent risk of the trade not being fully executed if the price does not return to a favourable amount. In this case the trade will be referred back to the fund manager to manually execute, when the opportunity arises. We always look to minimize all the costs associated with rebalancing.

7. Security

A fund devoted to cryptocurrencies requires maximum strength security. Tripterium Capital LLP has implemented best practice security industry defences. Secure operational procedures are in place including strong authentication, a risk-based approach to segregation of duties, and identity procedures.

The majority of cryptocurrencies will be stored in cold wallets with a small percentage of each currency stored in a wallet on our servers so as to facilitate rebalancing and the token liquidation option. Trades will be executed over multiple exchanges at varying times within our rebalancing window to mitigate the risk of front-running.

Two factor authentication

Two factor authentication and email verification is used on all exchange accounts. Multiple exchanges will be used to execute trades, in order to reduce the risk of front-running.

Multiple hardware wallets

Hardware wallets are purpose built, tamper-proof wallets designed specifically to hold digital currencies. These hardware wallets hold private keys and digital signatures in secure, offline devices. The Ledger Nano S will be used for storage of all the cryptocurrencies it supports. Encrypted storage drives and backup paper wallets will be used with regards to cryptocurrencies not supported by the Ledger Nano S.

Cold storage

The crypto currencies and Simple Agreements for Future Tokens (SAFT) will be stored in cold wallets within a secure vault, not connected to the internet and thus secured against hacking and theft.

Secret locations

The locations of the cold storage vaults are kept secret and are independently managed with secure access to pre-registered representatives.

TRIPTERIUM T50

8. ERC20 Smart Contracts: Vesting Contracts and Token Liquidation Option

Ethereum is an open-source, public, blockchain-based distributed computing platform and operating system featuring smart contract (scripting) functionality. The one great innovation Ethereum offers is the programmable contracts, and the most widely used one is the ERC20 standard. Ethereum has become the most dominant platform for ICOs because it allows for their execution via smart contracts. The ERC20 token functionality comes with advantages that makes Ethereum an ideal choice for the Tripterium T50 token issue. These advantages include:

- ✓ Multiple cryptocurrency exchanges already support the Ethereum ERC20 token standard
- ✓ ERC20 tokens have high liquidity because they can be bought using Ether (ETH)
- ✓ The ERC20 token standard is secure
- ✓ Ethereum ERC20 tokens have excellent support from official Ethereum clients
- ✓ The use of Ethereum smart contracts enables a transparent way of managing bonus, advisors and team vesting options, as well as the liquidation option
- ✓ ERC20 tokens can be easily stored in any Ethereum wallet

The team, advisors and bonus vesting schedule is written into the smart contract using the below specifications. Furthermore, a token liquidation option smart contract will be implemented.

A full list of Tripterium T50 team members and advisors is available on the website, www.tripterium.com.

Token Liquidation Option

The liquidation option offers a price floor for the T50 token, ensuring that the T50 token does not fall beneath the token's share of the net asset value of the fund.

The liquidating of a token will incur a 1% trading fee. This fee is imposed by the exchanges in order to process the liquidating trade. The liquidated T50 tokens will over time be resold on exchanges to ensure that the Tripterium T50 fund's net asset value does not decrease over time.

This liquidating option will be implemented after the ICO is completed. No further tokens will be minted, therefore the token supply will be fixed. The token holders will be able to easily work out their minimum token value, using the Tripterium T50 net asset value divided by the total T50 tokens in supply. Prices on exchanges remain free to increase in value as demand for the Tripterium T50 token increase over time.

The liquidating option will ensure that a floor for the Tripterium T50 token will be equal to the token's share of the net asset value of the fund, while allowing the token holder to benefit from the trade premium that the market will give to the token.

9. Cryptocurrency Venture Capital Growth

The development of blockchain has created a new financial mechanism known as the Initial Coin Offering (ICO), in the funding of start-up blockchain companies. This revolution in the financial area has injected funding into the blockchain space, and is helping create the infrastructure that will propel future blockchain projects and drive mainstream adoption. Blockchain technology is disrupting old conventions, and creating new possibilities.

We are in the early stages of the ICOs rise to prominence as a legitimate funding mechanism. The funds raised in ICOs in 2018 is already far superior to that raised in 2017 as shown in figure 4, and at this rate will be triple that of 2017 by the end of 2018.

Fig. 4. Growth in both ICOs and amount of US dollars raised 2017 - 2018 (source: Gartner Insights⁴)

TRIPTERIUM T50

So far in 2018, as shown on figure 5, over 50% of ICO funding has gone towards communications, finance, trading and investing. Though there are a lot of other industries being funded. This data set will change as the sector matures.

Fig. 5. Amount of US dollars raised in ICOs by industry category (source: Gartner Insights⁴)

Other sectors that could benefit from the advances in blockchain technology are ripe for innovation and investment. According to research done by Gartner, as shown on figure 6, blockchain will add value to businesses in the amount of $3.1 trillion by 2030.

10. Venture Capital Feeder Fund

Venture capital investments are considered either seed capital, early-stage capital or expansion-stage financing depending on the maturity of the business at the time of the investment. However, regardless of the investment stage, all venture capital funds operate in much the same way.⁷

The Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund will focus and invest in blockchain technology projects at early stages, and help nurture them along their path to launch. The Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund will not trade or invest in projects or tokens that are already listed on exchanges.

Blockchain, the technology has shown that information can be recorded even without trusting an individual organization, like banks. That changes everything. Almost every important aspects of life will be transformed by blockchain, for example money, banks, recording of contracts, rights, ownership and many more. This creates value creation and the potential for significant returns on investment.

The Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund, will support the best blockchain visionaries, and the best blockchain entrepreneurs, and have the power to negotiate favourable terms of investment. This will include, but is not limited to, bigger bonuses and excellent private pre-sale deals.

Public ICO Report

Leveraging the vast amount of experience within the Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund, a public ICO report will be produced for each project that the Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund invests in. This will increase the likelihood that the project will have a successful ICO, because the Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund would have done due diligence on the project.

The due diligence ICO report will help in positively marketing and promoting the project. The report will include the following information:

- Analysis of the team
- Analysis of the advisors
- Analysis of the project
- Review of the smart contract
- Review of the strategy
- Review of the market
- Analysis of the marketing plan

Additionally, the Tripterium Venture Capital Feeder Fund will offer the companies support in the form of:

- Access to top tier advisors
- Help with market research
- Help with strategy formation
- Access to top cyber security experts
- Assistance with running a successful ICO
- Help with listing on cryptocurrency exchanges

TRIPTERIUM T50

Investment Tenets

Each project selected will have to meet a set of minimum requirements in order to meet our investment tenets. This will reduce the risk associated with investing in early stage start-up companies.

The below are the minimum requirements for all the projects that get investment. Other more industry and market specific criteria will also need to be met. The extra criteria are industry and market specific so cannot be codified to all companies.

The minimum requirements are:

- A solid team with experience and a proven track record of success
- Evidence of commitment to complete development of the project
- Contain both the business and technical skills needed
- A token vesting strategy that aligns the team to the ICO participants
- Potential for a 100x return

11. Fund Structure

Tripterium T50 Fund

The first ICO was Mastercoin (now called Omni), which raised 5,000 bitcoins at a value of $500,000 in 2013. Mastercoin structured itself into a foundation called Mastercoin Foundation to manage its project. After Mastercoin, the most important event for ICOs was the Ethereum ICO in 2014. Ethereum created their foundation in Zug, Switzerland. From then on others have structured themselves in different jurisdictions such as Gibraltar, Malta, Hong Kong, Estonia, Singapore, among others.

The structure of the Tripterium T50 fund has been designed to be tax efficient and to reduce costs at all levels. The Tripterium T50 Fund's jurisdiction is the Cayman Islands, which is a favoured international jurisdiction for the incorporation of investment funds.

Due to the increase in private equity funds within the Cayman Islands, in 2016, the Cayman Islands introduced a limited liability company (LLC) structure that is a low cost and tax neutral corporation. The Cayman Islands LLC structure is ideal for the Tripterium T50 fund due to it being a closed end vehicle.

The Limited Liability Companies Law, 2016 of the Cayman Islands (LLC Law) was enacted in June 2016 and commenced on 8 July 2016. The LLC Law created a hybrid entity, a Cayman Islands limited liability company (LLC), similar to its Delaware counterpart. A Cayman Islands LLC is a corporate entity with separate legal personality and limited liability of its members but one which has greater flexibility than a company around its management and organisation.

A Cayman Islands LLC may apply for a tax undertaking certificate from the Cayman Islands Government on the same terms as currently available to exempted LLC'S, to the effect that, for a period not exceeding 50 years from the date of the undertaking, no law enacted in the Cayman Islands imposing any tax to be levied on profits, income, gains or appreciation shall apply to the LLC.

As such, a Cayman Islands LLC is the appropriate vehicle for the Tripterium T50 fund and the holder of the assets that the Tripterium T50 tokens are issued from.

Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund

The Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund's jurisdiction is the United Kingdom, which is a favoured international jurisdiction.

A Scottish limited partnership (SLP) is a unique vehicle. Although it has been around for over a century, the SLP has been used in recent times for modern business purposes such as private equity and property investment fund structures.

A Scottish limited partnership (SLP) has a separate legal personality. The SLP itself can own assets, enter into contracts, sue or be sued, own property, borrow money and grant certain types of security.

Tax transparency; the SLP is taxed as though it did not have a separate legal personality. No tax is payable by the SLP itself. Instead, the UK tax authorities (and other foreign tax jurisdictions) look through the partnership structure and tax is applied on the share of income and gains arrived at in accordance with profit-sharing ratios (which can be different from the ratios in which capital has been contributed).

TRIPTERIUM T50

The hybrid status of separate legal personality coupled with tax transparency offers the best of both worlds in a way that limited partnerships incorporated in other jurisdictions cannot.

SLPs can be used flexibly in investment fund structures, as feeder funds. As such, because it has a separate legal personality and tax transparency, the SLP is the appropriate vehicle for the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund.

Operating Structure

Tripterium Capital LLP will sign a fund management contract with the Cayman Islands based company Tripterium T50. This allows for a separate legal body between the assets and the management of the assets, therefore protecting the fund. Tripterium Capital LLP, will be paid a management fee of 1% of the fund value per annum for managing the index fund. This is 3x lower than in traditional structures where the charges are typically 3%. The fee will be charged monthly and taken during rebalancing. This is the most efficient way and will have a minimal effect on the fund.

Tripterium Capital LLP will sign a contract to manage the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. The separate legal body between the assets and the management of the assets, shall protect the assets held by the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. Tripterium Capital LLP, will be paid a fee of 0% per year for managing the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. This fee structure has been established to ensure that the incentives of Tripterium Capital LLP are aligned with those of Tripterium T50 token holders. The only incentive given to Tripterium Capital LLP will be the entitlement to 11.5% of distributed profits from the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. This is far lower than in traditional structures where the charges are a 3% management fee and 20% of profits.

87.5% of the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund's distributed profits will flow into the Tripterium T50 fund in the Cayman Islands. Therefore, profits flowing into the Cayman Islands Tripterium T50 fund will continuously increase the net asset value of the fund.

A small amount of 1% of the distributed profits from the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund will be donated to charity and focused on supporting science, technology, engineering and mathematics students.

12. Transparency & Reporting

The cryptocurrency accounting standards and regulations remain unclear at present. Tripterium T50 endeavours to follow all accounting standards and regulations with regards to the cryptocurrency market, which it is anticipated will in due course be introduced by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB).

Audited Annual Report

Audited annual reports will be produced for the Cayman Islands, Tripterium T50 fund and the United Kingdom's, Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. The reports will at a minimum include the following:

- Income statement
- Balance sheet
- Portfolio performance analysis
- Government regulation analysis
- Risk/return analysis
- List and amount of the cryptocurrencies held on the balance sheet date
- Details of salaries and benefits paid to the directors

The reports will be made available to the public on the Tripterium website.

Video Performance Call

The CEO of Tripterium Capital LLP will host a quarterly video performance call over the internet. The video performance call will be used to discuss the fund's performance and any outlook for the future, including discussing the companies that the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund has invested in.

Generally, the Video Performance call will begin with the CEO, reading a legal disclaimer statement to limit the fund's liability should actual results prove different from expected indicators reported in the discussion.

Then the CEO, including other invited fund team members, will discuss the operational results of the Tripterium T50 fund and the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund. The teleconference will then be opened for questions by investors and other participants. The fund's management will answer the questions, although if the data is unavailable to them they may defer a response.

A recording of the video performance call will be made available on the Tripterium T50 website, making it possible for investors who could not join the video performance call to access this information.

TRIPTERIUM T50

13. Marketing & Investor Relations

Post ICO the Tripterium T50 fund will continue to be marketed to potential investors. Institutional investors want to get in on the cryptocurrency market, but they have several barriers to entry such as:

1. The lack of rules and regulations in regards to cryptocurrencies
2. Custodial and security issues for digital assets
3. No easy way for them to enter the crypto market without causing a stir

Regulation and rules are coming into the crypto marketplace, and the institutions are putting into place custodial and security measures to ensure safety for their digital assets. That will resolve points 1 and 2.

According to Consensus 2017, the heads of investment institutions agreed that a $1 trillion crypto market cap would make entering the crypto markets feasible, and the institutional investors had a strong interest and desire to enter the crypto market.⁸ The crypto market is increasing year on year heading towards the $1 trillion market cap. Therefore, the crypto market itself, will resolve point 3.

The Tripterium T50 fund will produce information sheets, explainer videos, planning documents and brochures explaining the benefits of the fund. Additionally, members of the team will attend conferences to promote the fund to retail and institutional investors.

The focus on institutional investors is because institutions are the largest force behind the supply and demand in the securities markets. They perform the majority of trades on major exchanges and greatly influence the price of securities. As they enter the crypto market, marketing to them will be beneficial to Tripterium T50 as institutions can increase the premium the markets give to T50 tokens.

T50 token holders will be able to log into their accounts on the Tripterium website and view their token holdings. The CEO will host quarterly video performance calls to discuss the fund's performance and any outlook for the future, including discussing the companies that the Tripterium T50 Venture Capital Feeder Fund has invested in (further details can be found in section 12. Transparency & Reporting).

"The Tripterium T50 security measures represent a level of security far greater than any investor realistically could achieve individually, and it is absolutely the level of security the fund demands"

Kenneth Omoya, CEO, Tripterium

Any unsold tokens will be held and sold slowly over time with the proceeds being injected into the fund, therefore increasing the net asset value of the fund. This will happen in a measured way to ensure that the price of the T50 token is maintained. The disposal of the unsold tokens shall be at a price point that is at least 20% above the price paid by the ICO participants. The price paid by ICO participants will be determined using the highest Ether (ETH) price point between 15th June 2018 and the end of the ICO. Therefore, ICO participants will always have paid a lower price for their T50 tokens.

17. Conclusion

Tripterium T50 is a hybrid tokenized, closed-end index fund (CEF), which passively tracks the top fifty cryptocurrency assets by market capitalisation with a 10% cap. Regular rebalancing mitigates risks and ensures that the portfolio consistently follows the index. A Venture Capital Feeder Fund invests in expertly-vetted early stage blockchain technology companies undertaking ICOs and returns profits to the Tripterium T50 index fund, therefore constantly increasing the NAV.

T50 tokens are Ethereum ERC20 standard tokens that can be transferred and sold on exchanges providing liquidity to the token holder.

Tripterium T50 has been structured to take advantage of the efficient-market hypothesis (EMH) theory. The T50 index fund will harness the power of the market to deliver healthy returns, while the Venture Capital Feeder Fund will invest in riskier ventures in order to gain from the higher returns associated with them. This allows for Tripterium T50 to consistently outperform the market and benefit from the fastest growing next generation market in the world.
